

Unique Safety Advisor Service – from £900 plus VAT

For some businesses employing a specialist health and safety professional is not practical, on other hand, businesses that do, may need extra assistance. For these reasons we have developed our Unique Safety Advisor Service giving you the flexibility to call upon expert support when you need it most.

The service runs for an initial contract period of twelve months and includes a minimum of two days on-site support. All you have to do is decide what type of support you require!

The service also includes:

- telephone advice line
- regular legal updates
- priority response from your dedicated advisor
- discounts on further work and services
- designation of Soteria (UK) Ltd as your 'competent person'

The service can be tailored to meet specific business requirements and any additional days of on-site support are automatically discounted. So if you feel this unique service fits your business model call 0844 941 1108 today for your free no obligation consultation with one of our dedicated advisors.

"...the flexibility of the Unique Safety Advisor Service was just what we needed, we don't employ a health and safety professional so knowing Soteria (UK) Ltd are only a phone call away is very reassuring. We decided that our on-site support would include a safety audit and additional training on risk management for key staff. The standard of service is second to none and all the team are so approachable and friendly....its safe to say that this is a service we will renew each year".
